Round Mountain Romance Culminate In Marriage

A quiet home wedding Monday evening brought to a climax a romance beginning at Round Mountain and surviving a war experience. The contracting couple were Mr. James McDonough and Miss Marie Gibson.
The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs. W. R. Gibson on Arizona street, with Father Edward Noonan officiating.

Both young people were former residents of Round Mountain where the bridegroom was employed in the Round Mountain Mining company's mill. He is now with the Tonopah Belmont in the same capacity. When the war broke out he volunteered in the 1st gas regiment, United States army, and saw active service with the British on the Belgium front, with the French on the Toul sector and with the Americans from Chateau Thierry to the Vesle and in the Argonne drive to Sedan.

The bride graduated from East Denver high school in 1914 and from the Woodworth Business college in the same city in 1917. She was employed by the Nye county council of defense during the last year and under a wide circle of acquaintances.
Since March she has been in the employ of the Tonopah Belmont Corporation.

SILVER KING TITLE UPHELD BY COURT

Yesterday at Godfield the district court handed down a decision in the case of Tonopah Hasbrouck Extension Mining company versus Silver King Divide Mining company.
The litigation involved the conflict area between the "Independence No.
1," owned by the plaintiff and the "Silver King No. 1," owned by the defendant. The conflict area embraced four acres. The court awarded three acres to the Silver King and about one acre to the Hasbrouck Extension.

Important questions of mining law were involved in the controversy.
The "Silver King No. 1" was located in October, 1917, by Gust Hanson, one of the pioneers of the Divide district. The "Independence No. 1" was located by Joe Ford and associates in February, 1918. The plaintiff contended that Hanson's whole location was void for the reason that it was excessive in length and width, the claim being 1700 feet long and 750 feet wide at one end.
The validity of the Hanson location was also challenged upon the ground that the location monument was not placed at the point of discovery as required by the liberal requirements of the statute.

The court held that the excessive length and width of the claim did not invalidate the location unless the claim was so excessive as to show bad faith on the part of the locator.
He held that Hanson showed good faith in making his location and that the excessive dimensions were due to the difficulty of accurately stepping off the ground. The court upheld Hanson's right to amend his location in September, 1918, so as to draw in the lines to the legal limitation. In making the amended location, the amended lines embrace about one acre of the "Independence No. 1."

The court held that a claim must not be amended in any manner so as to affect intervening rights and therefore held that the plaintiff was entitled to draw along one acre of the ground in controversy. The court took a liberal view of the provisions of the statute regarding the location monument to be placed at the point of discovery. He held that if the location monument is placed within a reasonable distance of the discovery, the statute is satisfied.

The controversy primarily concerned a famous cropping, known as the "South Reef," situated within the area in conflict between the two claims. The decision gives this mineral body to the Silver King company. With characteristic accuracy in the matter of reporting legal news, the morning paper reported that the decision was in favor of the Hasbrouck Extension.

The Silver King company contended that because the location monument of the "Independence No. 1" and the point of discovery, were inside the original lines of the "Silver King No.
1," therefore the "Independence No.
1" was void in toto. But in addition to the discovery at its location monument, the plaintiff also proved a second discovery outside of the lines of the "Silver King No. 1" and on a clear ground, and therefore the court held that the second discovery was sufficient to validate the remaining portion of the "Independence No. 1" location, even though the location monument itself was in sight of the prior located ground.

The court ordered each side to pay its own costs. Both litigants were represented by Tonopah lawyers, H.
R. Cooke for the Hasbrouck Extension and Hugh H. Brown for the Silver King.
